HUMANITY

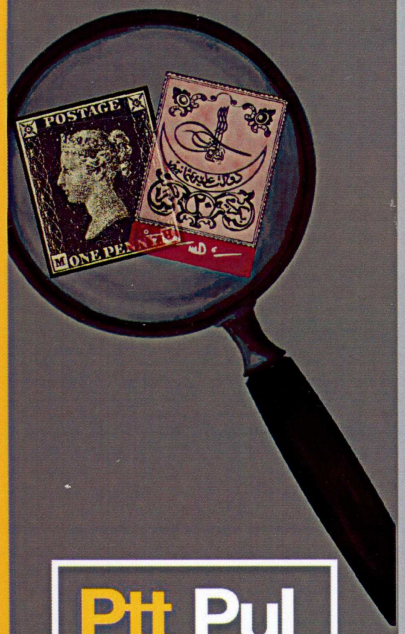

Tolerance is the state of showing tolerance towards everything as much as possible by understanding them. If we want to speak of love, respect and peace in the world, the most important condition for this is to become tolerant. Tolerance both expands the value judgement of people and enables them to become a beloved and respected person in community.
Affection, the most basic way for a person to be happy and to feel at peace, is the emotion that makes a person show close interest and commitment to something or someone. It is difficult for a person who does not experience affection and does not feel it inside, to be successful. Affection is the existence of the soul and it takes us away from all bad feelings and makes us feel safe.

In order to emphasize the importance of tolerance and affection for people, 2 (two) valuable "Definitive Postage Stamps Themed Tolerance and Affection" and the first day cover prepared accordingly, have been put into circulation by PTT Corp. as of 26.03.2021

IMAGES OF LIGHT

. The incident of light bouncing off by hitting a surface is called reflection. The velocity, energy, frequency and color of the light do not change, but only the direction of movement and direction change in the reflection incident.

If the surface that light hits is smooth like mirror, still water, flat granite, even and shiny metal surfaces, the occurring reflection is named specular reflection and if the surface that light hits is rough like wavy water, wrinkled aluminum folio, the occurring reflection is named diffuse reflection.

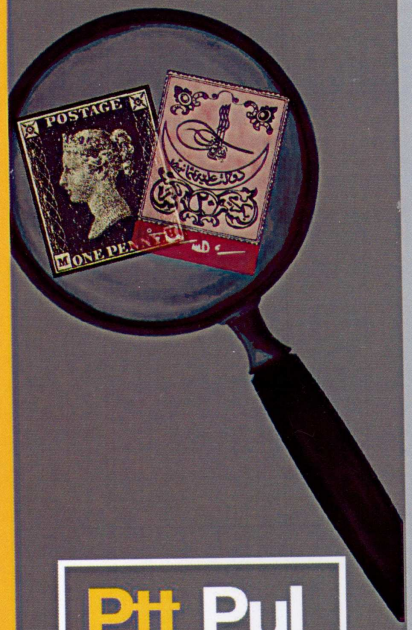

The incident ray reflects as per the reflection rules whether it hits smooth or rough surface. The law of reflection works with two rules. The angle at which light hits a surface (angle of incidence) is always equal to the angle of reflecting light bouncing off the surface (angle of reflection). The incident ray, the reflected ray and the normal of surface are in the same plane.

Any kind of reflection either natural or artificial can be photographed. Efficient photographs can be taken with the reflections occurring in a lakeside, puddles following rain. While the reflection photographs taken in still waters give clear images, the ones taken in slight wavy waters give more abstract images.

PINCER

There are about 5,000 species of crabs of different sizes and colors, which are from the family of crustaceans of arthropods. Although they are among the living species that make up a habitat in the seas, there are also species that live in fresh waters or on land.

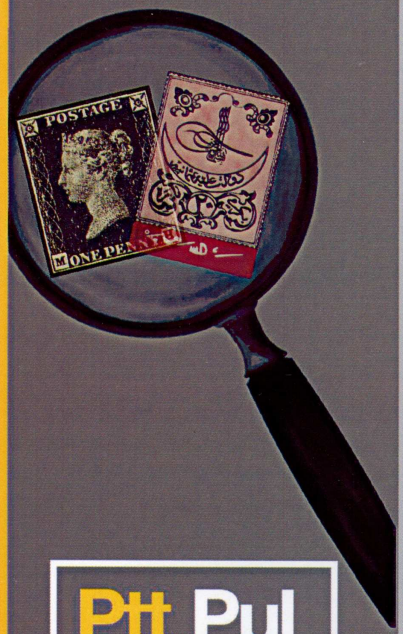

They also communicate with each other by hitting their pincers to each other, which they use to collect food and cut their preys into pieces.

Crabs have exoskeletons that allow them to protect their soft tissues. This is a hard shell consisting of a structure kit. Crabs are omnivorous (feeding on both meat and plants) creatures. They also eat other nutrients such as mollusks, fungi, algae, and bacteria according to their species.

Cross-stitch is the name of an embroidery technique made by using needle and embroidery floss on sparsely textured fabrics or perforated fabrics. Embroidery is done in two types as single needle or double needle technique. In the single needle technique, the pattern is passed on to the fabric with cross-shaped embroidery. In the double needle technique, the crosses are made larger and one more embroidery in the form of a plus is made on these crosses.

In ancient times, “canvas cloth” which is sparsely textured and divided into squares was sewn on densely woven fabrics, embroidered on embroidery, and when finished, the threads of the canvas cloth were removed.

Embroidery which is made by using simple patterns and few colors in every corner of Anatolia shows differences in motifs and colors according to the region they are found in, which is the richness of our cultural values.
