JUBILEE

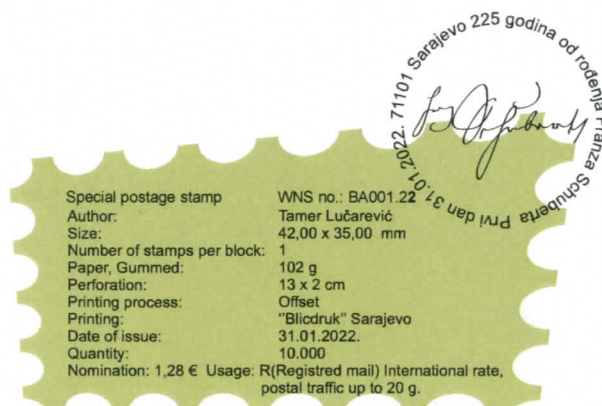

275 years since the birth of Francisco Goya (1746-1828)

Francisco Goya (Fuendetodos near Zaragoze, Spain 30.03.1746 – Bordeaux, France 16.04.1828), Spanish painter and graphic artist, is one of the first and most brilliant masters of fine art in the Romantic era. He is considered the most important Spanish artist of the late 18th and early 19th centuries, and during his long career he was a commentator and chronicler of his time. Immeasurably successful in his life, Goya is often called both the last of the old masters and the first of the modern ones.

225 years since the birth of Franz Schubert (1797-1828)

Franz Schubert (Vienna, 31.01.1797 – Vienna, 19.11.1828), Austrian composer, one of the first and main representatives of romanticism in musical creation. He showed a great talent for composing already at an early age. He composed symphonies and over six hundred solo songs, known as Lied - for voice and piano, and his source was verses by Goethe, Schiller and other poets. Among the most famous, we can single out Serenade, Ave Maria, Rose in the Grove, Beautiful Miller, Winter Journey and others. His fame was brought to him by the Great Symphony in C major composed in 1828 and the Unfinished Symphony in B minor composed in 1822. He died at the peak of his musical creativity, very young, in 1828 in Vienna.

The motif of the winning stamp design is the work of Linda Bos and Runa Egilsdottir, who explain their vision as follows: "The world needs a new symbol of peace, which unites all nations." Cultural differences may be a barrier to a state of peace. If only humanity could respect each other's differences by understanding their importance and considering them, the world would be a better place. This design shows a visual metaphor for a peaceful integrated, cooperative society where people accept each other's culture. It is inspired by the symbol of the Celtic love knot, with intertwined hearts. The color palette illustrates all the nations of the world. Adding hands with intertwined fingers conveys a message of mutual respect" - the authors pointed out Blidinje Nature Park is located in Bosnia and Herzegovina in the area of the high mountains of the Central Dinarides and includes the area of the Čvrsnica and Vrana mountain massifs. Administratively, it is part of the municipalities of Posušje, Tomislavgrad, Prozor-Rama, Jablanica, and the city of Mostar. Due to the geomorphological features, the wealth of flora and fauna, and the beautiful landscapes, the area was declared a nature park in 1995.

The old town of Sokolac was first mentioned in 1369 as "Sokol", and it is claimed that it was built in 1020. He had his own courtier, crew and estates to support him. In the gallery of his masters, we meet the princes of Frankopana, Ivan Korivna, Orlović and Kerečani. After the fall of Bihać to Ottoman rule in 1592, a čehaja, an assistant to the Bihać captain, was appointed in Sokolac, and this city will be an exclusive military stronghold all the time, until 1878, when the military crew leaves it.

Sand Pyramids near Foča On the ninth kilometer of the old road Foča - Miljevina - Sarajevo, in Pirni Do, there are Sand Pyramids and they are a true masterpiece of nature. This unique geomorphological phenomenon has been emerging for many years. With the erosion of the soil and under the influence of the aggressive combination of frosts, summer heat, rain and strong winds, figures of interesting shapes were created. The sand pyramids were first mentioned in the Austro-Hungarian period. To the population of this area, the pyramids are better known as urve, to which many legends are attached. Legend has it that the pyramids protect this area from the weather. Locals believed they were protected from torrents, earthquakes, hail, drought and other disasters.

The Bosnian carpet, mostly of oriental appearance, represents an important cultural value of both Bosniaks and other peoples in Bosnia and Herzegovina. They are adorned with beauty, rich artistic ornamentation, color, which combines the influences of the distant Orient and indigenous Balkan elements. It takes between a month and a month and a half of intensive work by an extremely skilled weaver to make a quality Bosnian carpet (two three meters). Every carpet has a story - from the weaver who made it to the people who owned it.

THE NATIONAL THEATER, Sarajevo

Community Center building (today's building of the National Theater) was opened on January 2, 1899 as a place of entertainment and social life, where theatrical performances were occasionally held. According to the data of Borivoje Jevtić, which is stated by prof. Josip Lešić in the book Sarajevo Theater between the Two Wars: "By decree of November 17, 1919, the Prime Minister of the National Government, Atanasija Šola, founded the National Theater for the Western Areas, as was the first name of the current National Theater in Sarajevo.»

Ancient mosaic from the Roman villa in Stolac at the end of the 2nd and beginning of the 3rd century AD.

A mosaic with the personification of the seasons was found in a Roman villa in Stolac in 1892. Only half of the mosaics with the personification of the seasons have been preserved. Two irregular rhombuses are inscribed in the quadrilateral field, which intersect to form an octagon. The central field of the octagon is destroyed except for the two corners which depict the personification of spring and winter.

Due to his writing style and the acceptability of his works by the readership, especially children, Ahmet Hromadžić is called the "Bosnian-Herzegovinian Andersen", because in his stories live unusual birds, golden herds, dwarfs, fairy-tale creatures with whom children want to identify. Fairy tales: "Dwarf from the Forgotten Land", "The Dwarf Tells You", novels: "Swan Field", "Petrified Wolves", "Clear Streams", "A Boy Riding a Horse" and "White Flower", short stories: "Zlatorun and Zelengor", "Ice Mountain" and picture books are part of the rich oeuvre of Ahmet Hromadžić.

Helix pomatia is one of the most common species of snails in the family Helicidae. With a body length of about 10 cm and a house about 5 cm in diameter, (32-50 mm wide and 30-50 mm high) is one of the largest land snails in Europe (this includes Helix lucorum). It is recognizable by a large house of cream white or yellowish brown color, often with slightly purple lines. His house is solid and spherically bent. The cultivated land of vineyards, gardens and parks sometimes provides them with such conditions.

Lynx (Lynx lynx), the common or Eurasian lynx is the largest cat in Europe. It is a species of mammal from the order Carnivora, a family of cats (Felidae). When we say 'lynx' in Bosnia and Herzegovina, we usually mean this species. Adult lynxes weigh 15 to 30 pounds. The common lynx is significantly larger than other lynx species, and the Pyrenean (Iberian) is significantly smaller than the others. Lynx are medium-sized cats, with long legs and large ears with tufts on the tips and a short tail. All species of lynx have a more or less pronounced beard, ie. hairs below the chin resembling a beard or bow.

Chamois (Rupicapra rupicapra) belongs to mammals (Mammalia), ungulates (Artiodactyla), and to hollows (Bovidae). It can grow up to 80 cm in height and up to 130 cm in length, and stronger males weigh more than 40 kg. Females are slightly smaller and lighter. Their natural enemy is the wolf, and the eagle can be a danger to young people. Chamois can live up to 20 years.
